DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Welcome to School Girls; Or, The African Mean Girls Play. Jocelyn Bioh has crafted a story that is funny, fierce, and unflinchingly honest. Set in a Ghanaian boarding school in the 1980s, this play delves into the deeply embedded issue of colorism, centering on Paulina, a dark-skinned, talented, and popular student who dreams of representing her country in the Miss Ghana pageant. Her confidence and standing, however, are shaken by the arrival of Ericka, a new student whose light skin and long hair align with the Eurocentric beauty standards favored by the pageant recruiter. This struggle for acceptance is echoed in a subplot involving Nana, Ama, Mercy, and Gifty, the other members of Paulina's established crew, each of whom grapples with her own insecurities and self-image in unique ways.

As the director, I am inspired by how Bioh masterfully weaves humor and gravity together, using the familiar dynamics of high school drama to reveal the complex, painful layers of colorism, colonial beauty standards, and the quest for self-worth. The story shows the tender and turbulent journey of growing up—of grappling not only with peers but with societal forces that attempt to define who we are.

With this production, I hope audiences are prompted to reflect on their own ideas of beauty and belonging while celebrating the strength, vulnerability, and complexity of these young women. Bioh's characters remind us that the struggle for self-acceptance transcends culture and geography and that, ultimately, beauty can and should be redefined on our own terms. In this moment in history, it is more important than ever for women to unite in their pursuit of collective liberation for the betterment of our shared global future.

Thank you for joining us on this journey, and I hope you enjoy the show!

This production is entered in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival (KCACTF). The aims of this national theater education program are to identify and promote quality in college-level theater production. To this end, each production entered is eligible for a response by a regional KCACTF representative, and selected students and faculty are invited to participate in KCACTF programs involving scholarships, internships, grants and awards for actors, directors, dramaturgs, playwrights, designers, stage managers and critics at both the regional and national levels.

Productions entered on the Participating level are eligible for invitation to the KCACTF regional festival and may also be considered for national awards recognizing outstanding achievement in production, design, direction and performance.

Last year more than 1,500 productions were entered in the KCACTF involving more than 200,000 students nationwide. By entering this production, our theater department is sharing in the KCACTF goals to recognize, reward, and celebrate the exemplary work produced in college and university theaters across the nation.

General School of Theatre Policies

- There is a fee for exchanges unless patrons are current Member Angels or higher, a School of Theatre faculty member, or an undergraduate or graduate theatre major or minor.
- We only accept cash, checks, Visa, and Mastercard as forms of payment.
- We do not offer ticket refunds per CVPA policy except in rare extenuating circumstances.
- Late seating is at the discretion of House Management and may not be immediately available. Late patrons will be seated in the closest available seat for their safety.
- Patrons who arrive more than 30 min. late must wait until intermission to be seated. If the production does not have an intermission, they will not be admitted.
- The use of photographic, video, or audio recording devices of any kind is strictly prohibited during our productions. If a guest is found to be recording the performance or taking pictures during a production, ushers or the house manager will ask them to delete the content and stop immediately. If the guest does not comply, they will be asked to leave.
- Food and drink are not permitted in School of Theatre venues.
- Only service animals are permitted in School of Theatre venues. All other animals are not allowed to enter during performances.
- All guests must have a ticket for entry.
- Babies (0-12 months) are only permitted at North Carolina Theatre for Young People productions.
- We share some guidance with the public, but It is the sole responsibility of parents or guardians to research and judge if the content of a performance is appropriate for their child's age and level of maturity.
- Please take a moment to locate the nearest emergency exit closest to your seating area. In the unlikely event of an emergency, please remain calm, and follow the instructions from the ushers (dressed in white and black with a name tag) and the house manager (dressed in all black with a name tag).

ANTI-RACIST/BIAS STATEMENT

The School of Theatre acknowledges the mistakes we have made dealing with systemic racism, bias, and prejudice, much like the rest of America. We wholeheartedly believe in the following words of Ibram X. Kendi: "The opposite of racist isn't 'not racist.' It is anti-racist." To the School of Theatre, this means that we will educate our faculty, staff, and students about anti-racist practices. This looks like creating systemic change through workshops, continuing education, and professional development centered around anti-racist practices, theatrical intimacy, and bettering ourselves in service of our diverse and intersectional student body. This feels like educating and empowering our students, faculty, and staff to recognize and speak out against racism and damaging, outdated theatre practices. We are committed to this daily practice of unlearning, growth, and change.
