How might 3D modeling and digital storytelling change how we experience and learn from artworks in the Weatherspoon Art Museum's collection? Dr. John Borchert, the museum's 2025–26 Benjamin Faculty Fellow, will share ideas for connecting art, technology, and community through UNCG's growing partnerships with Epic Games and new campus spaces for media, animation, and interdisciplinary collaboration. A scholar of digital humanities and game studies, Dr. Borchert also serves as the Director of Videogaming and Esports Studies.

ASL interpretation will be available.

Conversations in Black: History and Remembrance in the City of Greensboro

"What might be lost if we don't capture the living memories that are still present with people?"

—B. Bernetiae Reed, historian

These words, and the documentarian sentiment that animates them, are the driving force behind the ongoing collaborative project Conversations in Black. A shared approach to memory keeping, Conversations in Black seeks to digitize historical photographs and ephemera submitted by long-time Black residents of Greensboro and to make this content widely accessible in order to broaden everyone's knowledge of the city's rich heritage.

The photographs on view here were selected from that project for their connections to the exhibition Fighters for Freedom: William H. Johnson Picturing Justice. Similar to the themes highlighted in that show, these photographs depict cultural figures, educators and scientists, political leaders, and everyday people whose civic service shaped the city. Drawn from community-contributed collections, they provide entry points for conversations about recent Greensboro history. We invite visitors to contribute to this record and leave their mark by sharing their own stories as well. This exhibition is presented in collaboration with Conversations in Black: African American History and Heritage, Greensboro, NC and the DigitalGreensboro.org community archiving initiative.

Fantastic Creatures, Beautiful Beasts

Exhibition by Paige Cox & Natalie Schorr

What if you gave your imagination total freedom?

Strange creatures, imagined worlds, curious hybrids—do they only exist in our minds, or can we bring them to life?

This work lives in that in-between space where fantasy becomes form and

A Journey from Illness to Healing: A Neurodivergent Perspective

Painting Exhibition by Anne R. Laperriere

Anne R. Laperriere had the courage to begin this series of autobiographical acrylic paintings in 2022. The series is made up of bold, figurative works whose characters, mostly self likenesses, show states of mental health and illness that I've grown into, out of, and lived with play becomes purpose.

Colors misbehave. Materials mix in unexpected ways.

There are no rules about size, shape, or seriousness.

It's about creating for the sheer joy of it.

About letting imagination lead, wherever it wants to go.

Sometimes it's funny. Sometimes it's unsettling.
Often, it's both.

Now feels like a good time to escape a little—to let our minds bend toward something beautifully strange.

Enjoy some happiness!

during my lifetime. The viewer is taken into scenes expressing feelings and events such as depression, terror, mania, solitude, and thriving experienced during a lifetime of neurodivergent existence. Mind's Eye speaks about mental illness, well-being, and the transformation and healing of the human mind and spirit.

Last Days of the News and Record

Last Days of the News and Record September 2-6, 2025

Greensboro Project Space | Mercer Buffer

Reception
Friday 9/5 6 – 8 p.m.

Photo Exhibition by Mercer Buffer

I didn't think much about the News and Record building until they started knocking it down. Then I got kind of obsessed. I photographed the building and site routinely, mostly while I was doing other things. I used whatever camera and film I was carrying at the moment. In that way, my photos of the News and Record are both intentional and careless, considered and unplanned. All of the stories connected to that site are basically hidden from me. The photographs are simply visual explorations of what it's like to wonder about a specific place many times over many months. In addition to the prints on the wall, there are two volumes of photos for passers-by to browse. The News and Record site is a small plot and an inherent part of this work is the repetition of views and details as they changed over the months. The interior photos, on the other hand, cannot be updated since the destruction of the building was final. Those images, and the hidden stories connected to them, receded farther and farther into the past as the site was cleared of machinery, cleared of rubble, and filled in with grass and weeds. They continue to recede, I suppose, as the geese enjoy the new little pond they've gained since the demolition of the News and Record.
