Community Collection Study Session

Casella Sinfonietta

Inspired by Gabrielle Zevin's bestselling novel Tomorrow, and Tomorrow, and Tomorrow and this year's Benjamin Fellow, Dr. John Borchert, we will host a community collection study session to explore art and video games. Focusing on Katsushika Hokusai's The Great Wave off Kanagawa and the fictional Ichigo, we will discuss the role of visual art in the design of virtual worlds. No prior knowledge of Tomorrow, and Tomorrow, and Tomorrow is required to participate; however, we welcome participants to read the novel before the session.

A Journey from Illness to Healing: A Neurodivergent Perspective

Painting Exhibition by Anne R. Laperriere

Anne R. Laperriere had the courage to begin this series of autobiographical acrylic paintings in 2022. The series is made up of bold, figurative works whose characters, mostly self likenesses, show states of mental health and illness that I've grown into, out of, and lived with during my lifetime. The viewer is taken into scenes expressing feelings and events such as depression, terror, mania, solitude, and thriving experienced during a lifetime of neurodivergent existence. Mind's Eye speaks about mental illness, well-being, and the transformation and healing of the human mind and spirit.

I didn't think much about the News and Record building until they started knocking it down. Then I got kind of obsessed. I photographed the building and site routinely, mostly while I was doing other things. I used whatever camera and film I was carrying at the moment. In that way, my photos of the News and Record are both intentional and careless, considered and unplanned. All of the stories connected to that site are basically hidden from me. The photographs are simply visual explorations of what it's like to wonder about a specific place many times over many months. In addition to the prints on the wall, there are two volumes of photos for passers-by to browse. The News and Record site is a small plot and an inherent part of this work is the repetition of views and details as they changed over the months. The interior photos, on the other hand, cannot be updated since the destruction of the building was final. Those images, and the hidden stories connected to them, receded farther and farther into the past as the site was cleared of machinery, cleared of rubble, and filled in with grass and weeds. They continue to recede, I suppose, as the geese enjoy the new little pond they've gained since the demolition of the News and Record.

The image features the 'Spartan Experience' logo, which is circular with a blue and yellow design. The text 'SPARTAN EXPERIENCE' is at the top, and 'CAREER', 'LEADERSHIP', 'INCLUSION', 'WELL-BEING', and 'CONNECTION' are arranged around the perimeter. In the center is a large yellow 'G'. Below the logo is the 'UNCG STUDENT AFFAIRS' logo. To the right, the text 'SPARTAN EXPERIENCE' is in large, bold, dark blue letters. Below it, 'Level Up Your College Experience' is in yellow. A list of five items with yellow arrows is followed by a QR code. Two small images show a man holding a t-shirt and a group of three people outdoors.
